

Transcript - Talking about horror films

Being a bit of scaredy cat I'm not really into horror films. But every now and then I like to sit down and watch one with my girlfriend. I'm not very squeamish so I don't really find gory films very frightening, but anything to do with eyes gives me the heebie-jeebies so I find any scenes where people get the eyes cut or poked out really unsettling.

The films that really send shivers down my spine are psychological horror films, for me they're far scarier than gory films. Maybe ones where some people are exploring a spooky house and there's some creepy music playing, they really put me on edge because you don't know when something is going to jump out and scare you half to death. Sometimes the scariest thing is when we're watching a horror film and the house phone suddenly rings, or the cat makes a sound and we jump out of our skins with fright.

My girlfriend is slightly different to me. She's petrified of spiders and anything that looks like a spider but they don't really bother me. Once we watched a film about giant alien bugs and we had to switch it off because she was shaking like a leaf!
